Cautionary Note on Forward-Looking Statements

Forward-Looking Statements. Certain statements in this Investor Presentation may be considered forward-looking statements under Section 27A of the Securities Act of 1933 as amended. Forward-looking statements generally relate to future events or the Company’s future financial or operating performance. In some cases, you can identify forward-looking statements by terminology such as “may”, “should”, “expect”, “intend”, “will”, “estimate”, “anticipate”, “believe”, “predict”, “potential”, “target”, “aim”, or “continue”, or the negatives of these terms or variations of them or similar terminology. Such forward-looking statements are subject to risks, uncertainties, and other factors which could cause actual results to differ materially from those expressed or implied by such forward looking statements.

These forward-looking statements are based upon estimates and assumptions that, while considered reasonable by the Company and its management are inherently uncertain.

In light of these risks, uncertainties, and assumptions, the future events and trends discussed in this Investor Presentation may not occur, and actual results could differ materially and adversely from those anticipated or implied in the forward-looking statements. The Company cannot guarantee any future performance, conditions, or results, and undertakes no obligation to update or revise any forward-looking statements, whether because of new information, future events, or otherwise, except as required by law. Nothing in this Investor Presentation should be regarded as a representation by any person that the forward-looking statements set forth herein will be achieved or that any of the contemplated results of such forward-looking statements will be achieved. You should not place undue reliance on forward-looking statements, which speak only as of the date they are made.

Industry and Market Data. In this Investor Presentation, the Company relies on and refers to certain information and statistics obtained from third-party sources which it believes to be reliable, including reports by market research firms. The Company has not independently verified the accuracy or completeness of any such third-party information.

Among South America's Largest Portfolio of Uranium Assets – Argentina & Colombia

Foundational Assets

Laguna Salada and Huemul in Argentina, and Berlin in Colombia, anchor a diversified portfolio of large-scale uranium assets

Favorable Jurisdictional Framework

Cornerstone of Argentina's "Economic Revolution" and Colombian government's "Green Energy Transition"

U.S. & Argentina Nuclear Partnership

Assets located in jurisdictions aligned with U.S. nuclear partnership and supported by historical government involvement

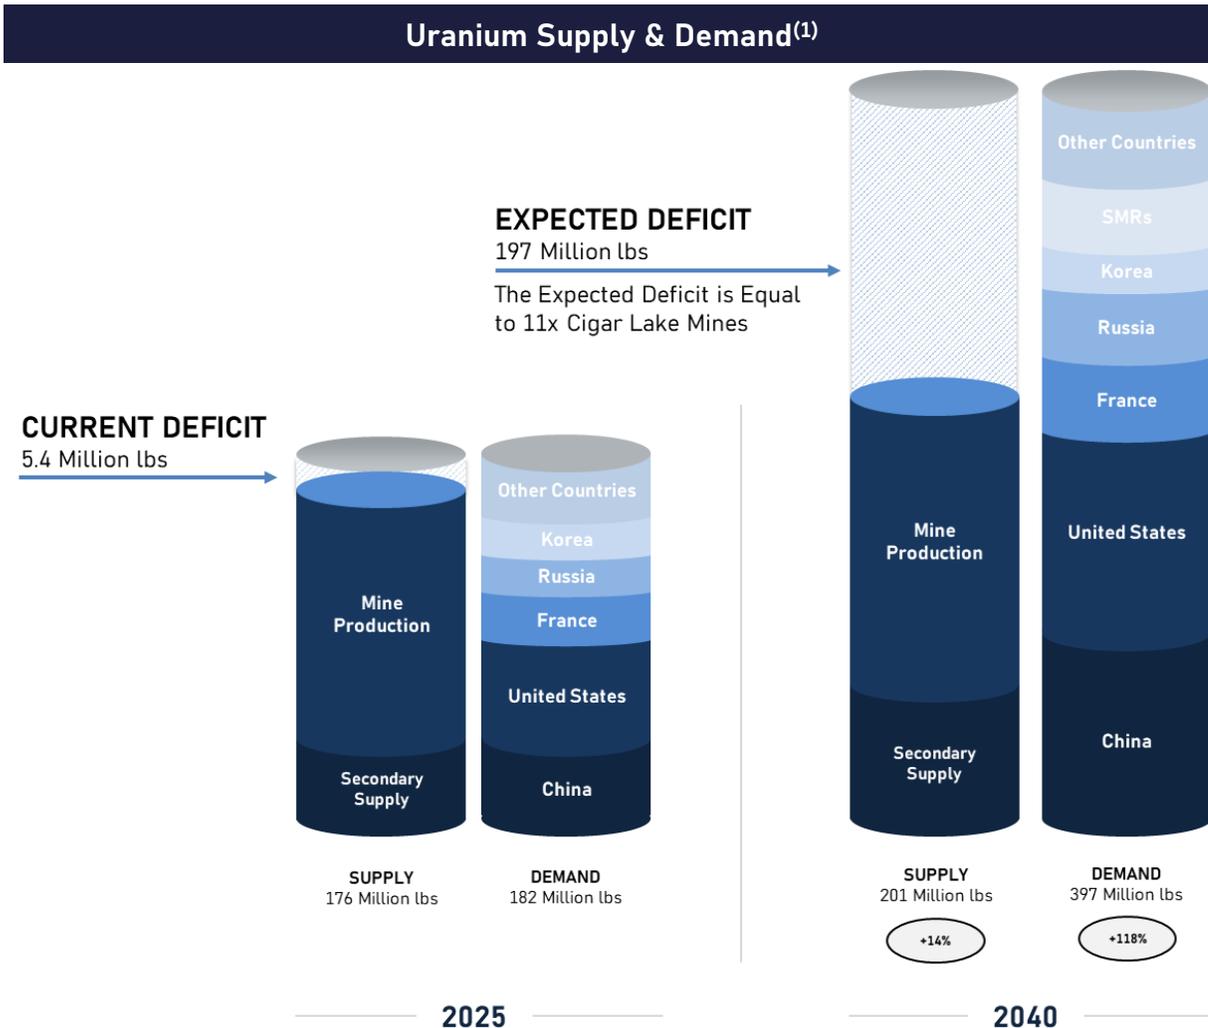

Existing Uranium District Infrastructure

Historical geographic uranium production and existing infrastructure reduce development and execution risk

Uranium Imbalance with South America as the Focus

Structural Supply/Demand Gap with no end in sight

Key Takeaways

- Uranium market in a persistent supply deficit, supporting strong tailwinds
- Deficit driven by mine production shortfalls, limited project restarts, underinvestment over the past decade, accelerating SMR (small modular reactors) development, and rising geopolitical tensions
- Growing demand for clean, reliable baseload power
- Demand growth driven by emerging markets, hyperscaler and AI-driven power needs, and the expansion of SMRs
- Regional Energy and Supply Chain Security
- “Donroe Doctrine” means South America countries will tacitly or implicitly be under U.S.-influence moving forward
- U.S. partnership with South American allies for new supply - Argentina, Colombia, Brazil, Peru
- Framework for a United States-Argentina Agreement on Reciprocal Trade

Argentina

→ Laguna Salada & La Rosada

→ Huemul Mine & Sierra Pintada

Argentina

Nearly 75 Years of Nuclear History

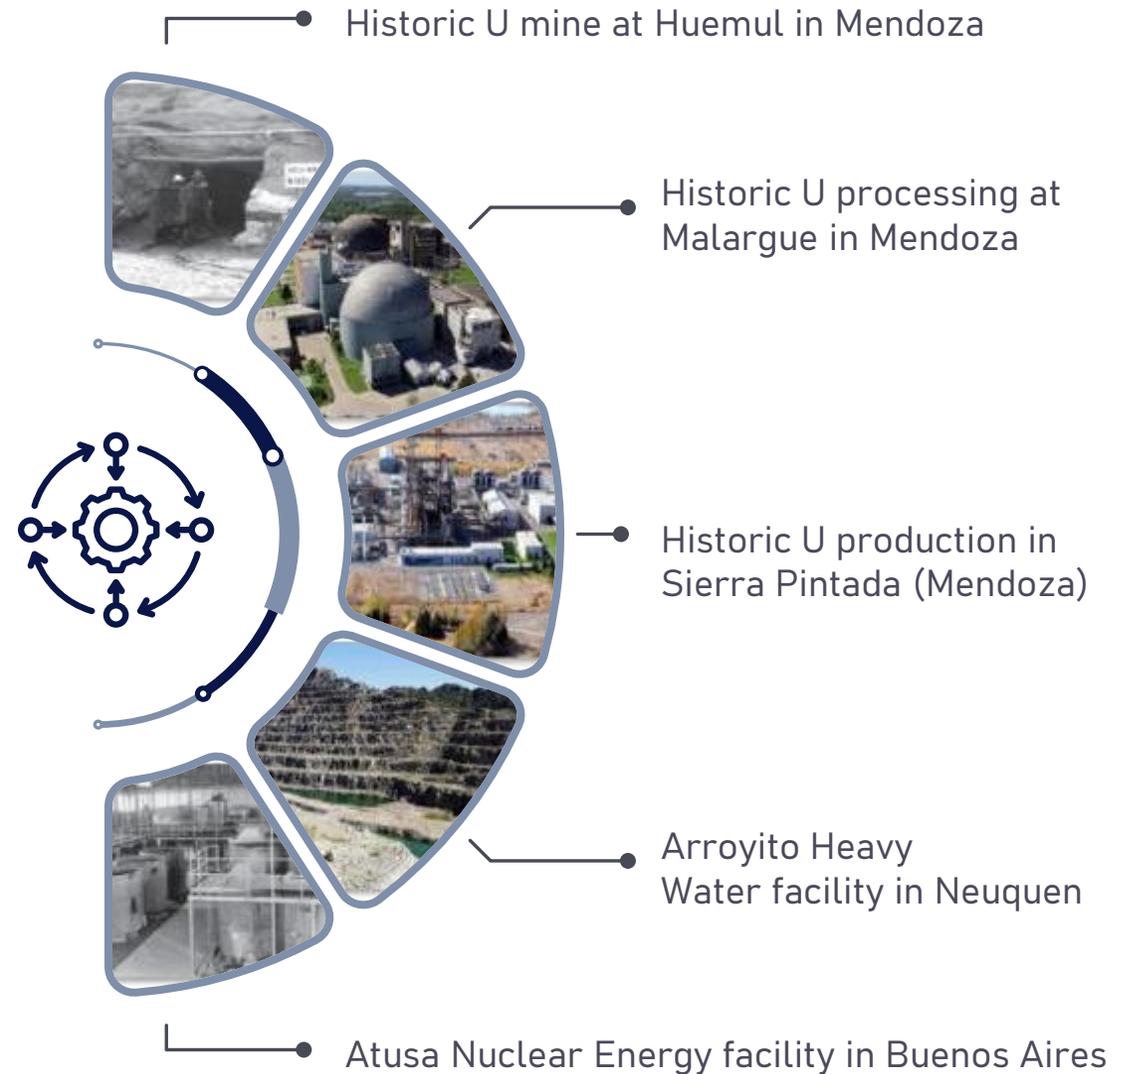

Argentina operates three nuclear reactors, with additional reactors under construction and plans to expand capacity

Established uranium mining, processing, and nuclear fuel infrastructure across Mendoza and Neuquén provinces

Renewed U.S. & Argentina nuclear cooperation and policy focus on securing uranium supply support infrastructure development

Argentina

Backing from the U.S & Focused Accelerated Industry Build

Federal Goal – Accelerated Reactor Build

Argentina to establish itself as a domestic producer for its own Uranium needs (currently imports 100% of supply)

Building four new reactors by 2030 to convert energy production to nuclear over coming decade

Federal/Provincial/Municipal Mining Goal

Dedicated Federal, Provincial and Municipal teams to fast-track mining activity (permitting) for uranium production in line with new reactor timelines

Focus on historic mines (Jaguar), including in-place infrastructure

Argentine Gov't + CNEA looking to build central processing facilities to reduce capital cost for processing for new domestic uranium supply

Argentina

Huemul Mine & Sierra Pintada District

Huemul Mine: 20,700 ha covers Argentina's oldest U-Cu-V mine

Sierra Pintada District: Argentina's last uranium-producing district (1997)

Located within an established uranium mining district with existing processing and nuclear infrastructure

Exploration upside supported by ~500,000 lbs of historical uranium production with mineralization open beyond mined areas

Additional exposure to copper and vanadium provides multi-commodity upside across the project area

Argentina's First Operational Uranium Mine Operated by CNEA (Comisión Nacional de Energía Atómica)

- Discovered – 1952 (after U initially found with Cu ores near Cerro Mirano)
- Reserves Defined – 1954
- Mining & Plant Commissioned – 1955
- Location of Plant – Malargue, Mendoza
- Initial Plant Capacity – 20t U3O8 /a
- Head Grade – 0.21% U, 2.0% Cu and 0.11% V
- Total Production – 130,000 tonnes
- Mine Closed – 1975

Argentina

Laguna Salada / La Rosada in Chubut

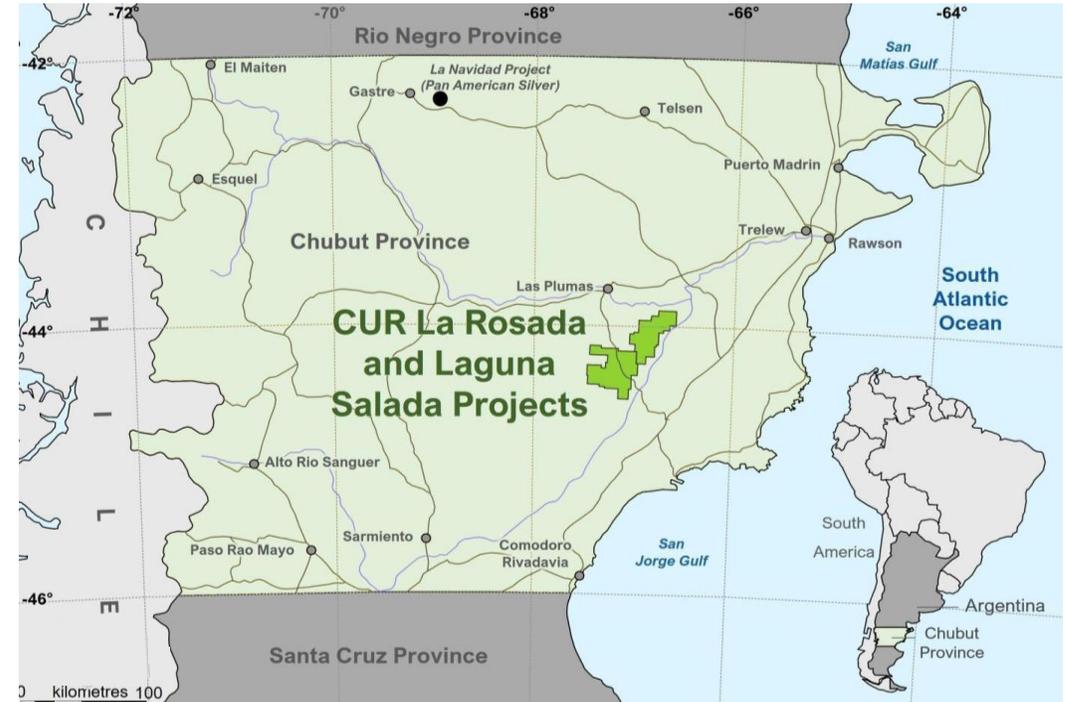

Near-surface deposit defined at Laguna Salada

Large exploration upside nearby at the Susana, Buried Lake and La Rosada targets – nearly 250,000 Ha

Metallurgical testing planned to confirm commercial recovery levels

Colombia

→ Berlin Project

Colombia in Focus – Emerging Uranium Cycle

Colombian President Gustavo Petro Urges Transition to Green Energy

The event, which was largely student-driven, aimed to foster dialogue on how the Stanford community can engage with Latin America.

Clifton B. Parker

Potential to Emerge as Colombia's New Supply Source of Uranium

Geology and Mineralization

Competent geology with near-surface mineralization

Expansive Resource

Established resource, open for expansion and an aggressive exploration program

Revenue & Profit Surge

High volume by-product potential to contribute significant revenue and profit margin expansion

Berlin – A High-Potential Uranium Asset

Berlin property holds 24,000m+ of historical drilling

Resource and expansion possible as existing exploration data covers just 3 km of known 10.5 km

Significant rare earth by-product revenue contributing to strong cash-cost potential

Fully situated in mining-friendly Caldas Department, with modern infrastructure nearby and skilled local labor force

Metallurgical studies indicate high recovery potential

Nearby Success Stories – Mining Friendly Region

- Modern Infrastructure – Highway, Electricity, Telecommunications
- Mining-Centric Workforce
- University of Caldas – Primary Mining School
- Supplier and Satellite offices nearby

Leveraging Existing Infrastructure

Well-maintained core shack & previously drilled core in place for reference & reassessment from 24,000m+ drilling program

Strongly preserved drill core from historical drill programs

Existing relationships with landowners & local farmers providing support for project restart

Infrastructure in area well-suited to meet potential exploration goals, including transportation, telecommunication, power and labor.

Investment Highlights

1 South American Pure-Play Uranium
Focused uranium explorer with a diversified portfolio across Argentina and Colombia

2 World-Class Investors
Backed by experienced resource investors with a track record in uranium and energy assets

3 Historical Production & Existing Infrastructure
Assets located in proven uranium districts with past production and established regional infrastructure

4 U.S. & Argentina Strategic Alignment
Growing U.S. & Argentina nuclear cooperation highlights renewed focus on secure uranium supply

5 Scalable Growth Platform
Large land position and multiple projects provide exploration-led growth, near-term production, and long-term optionality
